Deputy Chief of IAD, is now on the intelligence community "circuit", devoting full time to support of the Joint Imagery Interpretation Review Group in querying users of imagery interpretation products as to their likes, dislikes, and observations on this type of intelligence source. He is presently interviewing at Headquarters, having previously been through the military service elements. (SECRET)

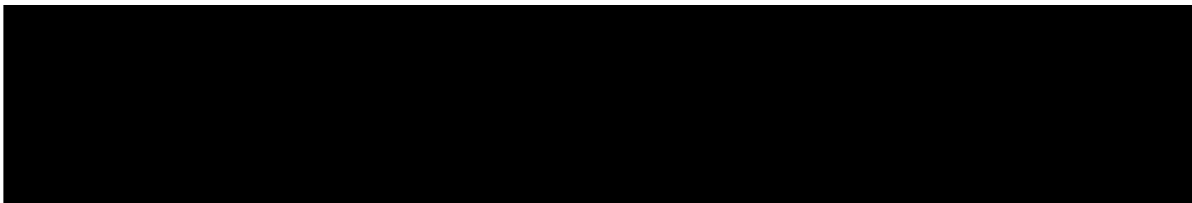

CAMBODIA

Continuing detailed photographic analysis of Ratanakiri Province, Cambodia, revealed an extensive probable insurgent base area straddling the Tonle San (Se San) river basin approximately 10 nm west of the Cambodia - South Vietnam border. The rectangular shaped area, measuring approximately 10 nm long and 8 nm wide, is strategically located. Pleiku is approximately 45 nm to the east, and the Ia Drang-Chu Pong mountain area approximately 35 nm to the southeast.
